Participation and safety

Please plan to attend the full agreed session.

Dance involves physical activity and ordinary risks. Participants should follow the teacher’s safety instructions in a way appropriate to their age and understanding, practise only activities the teacher has assigned or permitted, and wear suitable dancewear and footwear. Stop and tell the teacher if an instruction is unclear or you feel unwell, in pain or injured. Parents or legal guardians should help children understand the basic rules and privately discuss any necessary participation arrangements with us before the session. For children, agree handover, collection and a reachable telephone contact in advance. We provide teaching and supervision appropriate to participants’ age and abilities. Our legal duties of care remain unchanged.

Care of the venue and property

Please take care of the venue, equipment and other people’s belongings, and follow the teacher’s instructions for their safe use. Report any damage, accident or hazard to the teacher promptly. Any liability for damage is determined under applicable law and the circumstances, including the participant’s age and understanding, fault and relevant supervision duties. This confirmation does not exclude or limit SADA’s liability under applicable law.

Emergency arrangements

If needed, we arrange appropriate first aid, contact emergency services and inform the parent or legal guardian. Medical consent and liability for costs follow applicable law.

Private information

We will explain how personal information about participation needs will be handled. Do not include medical details on this form.

We sometimes take photographs or record video during regular classes to document and present SADA’s teaching and activities. A trial or in-person audition may take place within one of these classes, so the visiting participant could otherwise appear in a group image or recording. This is why we ask separately whether you agree to photographs or video for the stated activity and publicity purposes.

Photo and video consent is optional and separate from participation. If you do not consent, we will arrange filming and photography to avoid including you or your child; we will not use identifiable images of you or your child for publicity without that consent. You may withdraw consent by emailing info@dance.vision. Refusing or withdrawing consent does not affect trial or audition participation. Earlier lawful use remains unaffected.
